

Taranaki Mayor presents Health and Safety Awards

Tenix Robt Stone, working towards its “Zero Harm” goal in the workplace, put all 51 of its Hawera, Kapuni and Wanganui staff through NZQA approved training courses. The training was completed off-site in groups of 10, run by industry training organisation Competenz.

Competenz hosted their 2009 Safety Awards in the Hawera town hall on August 5th 2009 where the Tenix Robt Stone staff received their certificates from the South Taranaki Mayor Ross Dunlop.

Tenix Robt Stone is undergoing a company-wide culture change in our attitudes and behaviour towards health and safety with a goal of “Zero Harm”. The training was implemented to help drive this change.

Tenix Robt Stone works in extremely hygienic surroundings such as the dairy and food and beverage industries through to hazardous environments such as oil & gas and petrochemical industries where health and safety is paramount. The training has provided staff with the necessary skills to work in all these industries lowering the risk of harm to themselves and others on-site.

Congratulations on this achievement!
